The East Enders Make a Rather Poor Show

AGAINST THE PITTSBURGS

Some Surprising Statements Abou the Brotherhood.

THE ASSOCIATION PENNANT RACE.

Good Eacing on the Latonia and the Eastern Tracks.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

The Pittsburg basebali team played the East End Athletics at Recreation Park and won a poorly played game. The Association race continues to be exciting. Surprising rumors are current about the Brotherhood's alleged new baseball scheme.

One of the things that baseball cranks need not, and probably do not, expect is to see first-class ball playing when an amateur aggregation and a National League team come together in an exhibition contest. If such expectations exist in the minds of enthusiasts of the national game those expects tions must have been badly blighted a Recreation Park yesterday, providing such expectants were at the park. The East End Athletics, the champions of the county league, tested conclusions with the Pittsburg League delegation, and were simply taught the lesson that there is much in base-ball of which they know little. But aside from the feature of good or bad playing, there is an interesting feature in if both teams are playing in their best form. I is to be feared, however, that the County league champions were not up to their standard yesterday. At any rate it is sincerely to be hoped they were not, because if they were their work says very little indeed, for the quality of playing among the County league clubs. The "amateurs" could hit but little, their pitching was bad and their fielding was extremely 'TWAS VERY ONESIDED.

All these shortcomings combined tended to make the game so onesided that it was more of a burlesque than anything else. nore of a burlesque than anything else. However, there were palliating features as far as the amateurs were concerned. It is safe to say that scarcely a man in the nine was calm and steady enough in mind to tie his shoe when the game started. Almost everyone seemed to have the nervous tremor, and as a result th most ridiculous mistakes were made. This was so much the case that in the first innin seven runs were made, while only one little cratch hit was made. Dillon started in t pitch, and was an absolute failure. He couldn't get the ball across the plate, and be retired to third base at the end of the second inning Oliver going into the box. Undoubtedly Dillon can do better than he did, but he and other on can do better than he did, but he and other "amateurs" discover a big difference between facing players such as compose organizations like the County league and those who make up the National League. Players in the latter body generally demand the ball to cross the plate or else it's no go. It is different in amateur organizations, whose batters swing away at almost anything, and as a result we hear about phenomenal pitchers.

A FEW GOOD PLAYERS.

There were two or three pretty steady players among the amateurs yesterday, notably Schover, Gumbert and Lauer. But it is only fair to say that the Athletics' work of yesterday ought not to be taken as a sample of their best playing. It is certain that they can do much hetter or else they could not have beaten a team in the County league.

The game was a very uninteresting one. About 200 people sat in the cold and watched it. There were many changes during its pro-gress. In the second inning Miller was struck on the hand and retired at the end of the sec-

gress. In the second inning Minier was strick on the hand and retired at the end of the second inning, hess taking his place behind the bat. Hess did nothing worthy of praise. At the end of the third inning Staley retired and Maul went in to pitch. To tell how the runs were made would be wearisome. Bases on balls and fielding errors almost accounted for all of them. Had the pitching of the "amateurs" been better, cer tainly the hitting of the professionals would have been beavier. Bases on balls and wild "pitches, however, were what hatters seemed to wait on. Following is the score:

HERE'S THE LATEST.

The Brotherhood Wants to Buy the New York Franchise.

NEW YORK, October 2.-The Herald nounces that Ward notified President Day yes terday that the New York club nad decided to terday that the New York club and decided to start out for themselves next season and would not sign with the old club. They have been offered pienty of financial backing and have secured grounds near the Pole grounds. They would not make an offer for the New York club franchise. Mr. Day, it is said, thinks seriously of abandoning the present organization and going in with the boys.

Mr. Dellingham and Mr. Appleton said they considered the Iranchise worth $750,000. As may be imagined the nerotiations came to a sudden stop. The next step was by Mr. John Montgomery Ward. Mr. Ward called on Mr. Day and informed him that the Brotherhood players belonging to the New York nine had decided that they could not purchase the franchise of the New York club, but they would start a new club. The players had voted to refuse all positions offered for the next season, and had appointed a committee to secure suitable grounds and to suite franchise of the next season, and had appointed a committee to secure suitable grounds and to suite franchise of the next season, and had appointed a committee to secure suitable grounds and to suite franchise. and had appointed a committee to secure suitable grounds and to solicit financial aid. Mr. Ward added that the committee had been very successful. They found plenty of moneyed men to go into the new enterprise and willing to furnish them grounds not a stone's throw from the present Polo ground. All that the owner of the property asked was that he should have atock enough in the new club to represent the value of the property secured to the uses of the association. In short, Mr. Ward intimated that the stockholders of the present New York club had better leave a sinking shin.

Mr. Day consulted Mr. Coogan and learned that he was the person who stood ready to furnish the new grounds. Mr. Day says Mr. Googan had already had several conferences, and my informant tells me that it is pretty well settled that Mr. Day will be one of the stockholders of the New York club under the Brotherhood regime. and had appointed a committee to secure suit able grounds and to solicit financial aid. Mr

BRAVER FALLS, PA., October 9.- Jose Close, assisted by the owners of Geneva Park is already taking steps toward the formation of a baseball team for Beaver Falls next season. The players in the team will be se-lected from the best material in Beaver

To-Day's Local Game. The Pittsburgs and the East End Athletics will play at Liberty Park this afternoon. Sowders will pitch for the former, and Gumbert for the East Enders.

A BRISK FIGHT.

The Browns Again Play Well and Defeat

LOUISVILLE. October 9.—St. Louis won after a brisk fight for six innings to-day. In the fourth and seventh Milligan batted home runs which brought five men across the plate. Chamberlain's batting was a feature and in the seventh he broke the tie. Weaver and Duffee in center led the fielding. McDermott pitched fairly well, while Chamberlain did splendid work. Ryan gave no chance for stolen bases.

The Association will beautify the park and track and make it worthy of being added to the circuit, and will also make rich purses, etc., that will induce the blooded stock to be entered for McKeespert races.

The Local Curiers

do business. They will hold a meeting in a few days to make arrangements for the leasing of a first-class rink. Heretofore the great drawback to this excellent sport has been the inability to secure a suitable rink. Mr. J. W. Drape, however, stated last evening that an excellent site will be secured this winter. He further stated that some valuable prizes will be offered and some big contests held.

A Treating Dog.

KANSAS CITY, October 9.—Kansas City claims to have the champion trotting dog of the world. This new variety of racer, a red Irish setter of full blood, answering to the name of Dock, is owned and driven to a light dog sulky by Willie Ketcham, a sturdy boy, dog sulky by Willie Ketcham, a sturdy boy, who has, all unaided, trained the animal. The dog is said to have made a mile on the track in 3:49. Yesterday he was given a trial half by his master at the Exposition track and without a skip or a brefix of any kind, but doing downright honest trotting in a comparatively leisurely manner he made a balf mile, pulling 81 pounds, in 1:55. When his master learned the time he said Dock could essily have made the distance in five seconds and if pushed in ten seconds less time. In a recent brush on a road he easily defeated Lady Fashion, a pet roadster of this city.

GREAT RACE ENDED The Steamship Teutonic Reaches

Sandy Hook From Liverpool

HOURS AREAD OF THE NEW YORK.

Her Best Previous Record Beaten by About Forty-Five Minutes. THE CITY OF ROME DISTANCED.

And the Defeated Racer Stuck on a Bar, Unable to Reach the Pier.

The last great ocean race has ended. The Teutonic came in far ahead of the City of New York, beating her own best record by 45 minutes, but still not equaling the best time made by the New York. The contest was an exciting one.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] NEW YORK, October 9 .- For the third ime on their westward trips the big steamships, City of New York and Teutonic, have tried conclusions, and for the first time the Teutonic has won, and won with four hours to spare. She was being docked at her new pier in the North river just as the telegraph operator at Fire Island caught sight of the lights of the City of New York. The Teutonic arrived at Sandy Hook at 4:22 this afternoon, after battling against strong head winds almost all the way across.

The time from Roche's Point was 6 days, The time from Roche's Point was 6 days, 6 hours and 29 minutes, which is 45 minutes ahead of her last and best record, but 2 hours and 12 minutes behind the time made by the City of New York on her last westward passage. The Teutonic left Queenstown on Thursday, October 3, and passed Roche's Point at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoen. The City of New York left Queenstown a half hour before her rival started out to test the merits of the smaller screws with which she had been smaller screws with which she had been fitted.

The big Inman boat hugged the shore while the Teutonic stood off behind her, with her screws whipping around at 79 revolutions a minute. Slowly the Teutonic gained, and when Fastnet light was reached she was nearly abreast of her rival. The New York's lights ahone out bright all night long to the passengers who watched her eagerly from the Teutonic's decks. When morning came the Inman liner was three miles to the south of the Teutonic, with the black smoke pouring in a steady stream from the funnels of each.

Soon the City of Rome loomed into sight and at 8 o'clock she was midway between the two racers, who didn't take long to leave her ignominiously behind. At noon the passengers who lined the port side of the Teutonic rejoiced to see that they were drawing away from their rival. The City of New York was veering to the couth and drawing behind. At A c'elect south and dropping behind. At 4 o'clock the Teutonic lost sight of her entirely, away to the southeast. Then the Teutonic settled down to steady work. The record of each day's traveling was:

TERREHAUTE, IND., October 2.—The second day of the fall races was a perfect racing day. A warm sun, good attendance and a fast track combined to make it an eventful one. In the 2:22 trot there were eight starters, of which Middleway, Wyandotte and Woodruff Pilot took a prominent part. succeeded in concluding a performance under the same form in a quiet spot not far from the home of Buckley early this morning. And more than that, the spectators in this case got the worth of their money.

The puglists scaled at pretty near 150 pounds each, and they fought for a medal and a purse of about $100. Of course they mauled each other with bare hands, in the good, old-fashioned way. Buckley's seconds were named Barrett and Wilson, and Harris' Downs and Cramer. A well-known Trenton sport had previously been agreed upon as referee. For three rounds there was some effective work done by both, although Harris showed himself to be the quicker in hitting and getting away. Harris scored first blood in the first round by a smash on Buckley's nose.

In the fourth Harris earned a clean knockdown by a right-handed blow under Buckley's left eye, and after that had things his own way, although Buckley stood up like a veteran under the fire. Up to the twelfth round Harris beat his man many times on the face and chest, and if the same round landed a strone, straight-arm blow on the Passale man's jugular that toppled the Jersey man over on his back and put him soundly to sleep. It was the blow of a master in the art. When Buckley was brought around it was noticed that his face and body were badly swollen, while Harris had but a few slight cuts on the chest and stomach.

HARTFORD, CONN., October 9 .- The first visit of the delegates to the Interna-tional Congress to-day was at Worcester, Mass., where Mayor Winslo, Rockwood Hoar, a son of the Massachusetts Senator, embers of the city government and 30 gentlemen of prominence in the town took their places in carriages and drove with them from the depot through and about the city. The South American representatives listened with some amusement to a statement that, within their view during a part of the drive, was a factory in which hundreds of thousands of roller skates were being made for use in South America and Australia, in which countries the craze at present prevails in an acute form.

At exactly 10 o'clock the great train moved out of the depot, hundreds of people lining the way of its passage and the hats of men and the handkerchie's of ladies waving a good-bye. The weather conditions on this, the seventh day of the journey, were perfect, and the New England forests, reddened by the autumn frosts, upon each stage of the journey supplemented with their beauty the interest of the trip. VISITING THE FACTORIES.

On their arrival at Willimantic the visitors were conducted by the local Committee of Reception to the chief mill of the Willimantic Spool Cotton Company, which is deemed one of the most complete and healthful in the world. The building of one story in height, lighted from above and at the sides, covers 3½ acres of ground, and in it is employed a large number of the 1,000 operatives working the entire plant.

They are chiefly young women and the delegates were told that their average earnings were $3 per week, and that they live mostly at home. The atmospheric conditions for the proper making of thread are those in which vegetation best thrives, and at the entrance, under the glass of the roof, were paims, banana trees, and other tropic vegetation, the sight of which was greeted with pleased surprise by the delegates.

The tour of the works was necessarily rapid, but the evolution from raw cotton to the boxed product ready for market was seen and explained. A definite idea of what is accomplished in one day by the countless whirling spools and spindles of the entire works was furnished to the delegates by the statement that the daily product the country of the country of the statement that the daily product the country of th gates by the statement that the daily product of thread is 144,000,000 feet, which is equal to a single thread 2,800 miles long.

A NEAT SOUVENIR. A NEAT SOUVENIR.

As each excursionist left the works a neat little box containing one spool of fine thread was presented as a souvenir of the visit. With the Reception Committee were Governor Bulkely and United States Senator Hawley. The train arrived at South Manchester, Conn., at about 1:30 o'clock. The little time allotted to South Manchester was devoted to the Cheney Silk Mills. was devoted to the Cheney Silk Mills, where plushes, florentines, plain silks, dress goods, etc., are produced. In a great hall samples of all the various goods were displayed. Said Minister Ara-gon, of Costa Rica: "Do all the people of your country know of this great producing of silks?" He was told that doubtless millions of Americans did not know that silks were largely produced here. The visitors saw 2,000 employes at work at $45,000 a month in wages, the work of whose hands aggregates an annual output of $4,000,000.

Leaving the silk mills each excursionist received a silk American flag, about 4 by 3 feet square, manufactured in the mills inspected. Again mounting to the train the last stage of the day's journey was begun, and was closed when the party reached Hartford, at 3:30 o'clock. Here the party was divided; one part went over a local route of sight-seeing and the other over an-

WHERE GUNS ARE MADE.

The first, with General Hawley, the Vice President and Manager Hall, of the Cott Armory Works, went to the shops of that concern. The visit there might be briefly characterized as a round of wonderment and amazement on the part of the foreigners and most of the Americans in the party. Dr. Gatling, the inventor of the rapid-firing gun that bears his name, was present also. The delegates were led over 300 acres covered by the works.

The 35,000 machines employed in making arms, graphophones, printing presses, type-writers and engines were seen in operation under the hands of 1,200 men, whose monthly payroll is $50,000. In an open court the Coltrifies firing 15 shots in 7 seconds were discharged by Dr. Amador, from Columbia, General Hawley and others, while the Gatling gun of ten tubes was op-erated at the rate of 12,000 shots per minof the foreigners turning the crank by which the tubes are emptied, Dr. Gatling directing the loading. Said one of the Southern delegates:

"Our visit is not in keeping with this exhibition. It is for war, while we are for

"But this gun is a peace-maker," returned Dr. Gatling."

At another place the other division of delegates saw how bicycles are made. They expressed some surprise at learning that the steel tubes which form the frame work are made in England, as, after what they had seen, they were prepared to believe that Americans could make anything in the world.

The same shop also turns out sewing machines in numbers. Further on and in another factory hundreds of trip and drop hammers were making a thunderous roar. The white-hot pieces of steel held by the workmen were fashioned into dies and stocks and ring bolts, and parts of guns and pistols and almost every article where the drop and ring bolts, and parts of guns and pistols and almost every article where the drop forging process can be applied.

The last factory visited was that where caligraphs are made at the rate of 25 daily, by 175 hands. The South Americans expressed pleasure upon discovering that the machines, if they could not speak, could at least write Spanish, and samples of work in that language were eagerly sought. that language were eagerly sought.

MARK TWAIN ON DECK. A banquet was tendered to the delegates this evening. In answer to a general call Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) rose and addressed the meeting. He said:

addressed the meeting. He said:

1 think Governor Bulkley has the best sagacity of any Chairman I ever saw preside at a banquet. Now, always when introducing a man, the Chairman tries to give him a text. But that Chairman never lived that could do it just right. It is because men are so differently constituted. He gives to an unclerical person the clerical text, and he gives to Dr. Parker the text that I could stand and warble under for hours. [Laughter.]

The only sort of text that appeals to me, that makes me desire to talk, is that given when the speaker betrays himself and delivers himself of an untruth. I was born that way. I couldn't stand an untruth unless that untruth is delivered in a handsome way. The gentleman from Costa Blca (Aragon) had acknowledged the welcome of the citizens of Hartford—a man born in another country—in such terms that if he (Clemens) could do it he would never shut his mouth in the world. [Laughter.]
